

THE FIRST PART OF THE EQUATION— BREEDERS OF THE 2018 WORLD CHAMPIONS

By Kim Oplotnik & Kim Wilkinson • Photography by Howard Schatzberg

A world champion often starts as a breeder's vision to pass on or generate greatness. When, in the Morgan Grand National issue of The Morgan Horse, we report on all the world champions, we typically include information on owners and exhibitors. We realize breeders most often get left out of the equation. To change this, we are here extending that list to include the world champions' pedigrees and naming the people who brought them into the world in the first place—their breeders.

While the following list does not include each horse taking a victory pass in Oklahoma, it does indicate the type of quality our community is invested in. Whether you enjoy the match making game of creating dream offspring or are a calculated breeder interested in statistics, this record of world champion progeny only adds to future breeding conversations.

Interesting patterns emerged as the information was compiled. The storied Copper Beech breeding program boasts nine champions across six different disciplines, proving the longevity of the CBMF prefix. Mizrahi and Futurity French Command tie this year's list of world champion get with seven each, continuing their reign from 2017 sire rating as one and two, respectively.

The breeders of these Morgan world champions deserve a round of applause, smart choices are making for exciting new performers and respected stallions and broodmares prove themselves time and time again as familiar names continue to have a stronghold in our breed's largest arena.
